

Sheriff Ben Cannon - The Lady Changed Me

A western with some romance and action. Ben Cannon likes to drink and fight. Annie Burrows is as sweet as they come. Tom Burrows is her father and hes a Preacher who wears a gun. *** In all my life, I couldnt remember when time seemed to go so slow. Right now, it was at a complete standstill. The boredom finally ended when Mrs. Cole stuck her head in the door. Out of breath, she said, Hurry, sheriff. Theres trouble at the general store. Vern and I got up and followed her outside and quickly made our way over to the general store. There were five men over there. Two of them on one side of the walk, two on the other side and one blocking the steps. I knew them all. Two of them, Earl Poppy and Tork Gallo, were big, tough and mean. The other three werent near as tough but were more than willing to give a guy a go. In the middle of these men stood sisters Margaret and Milly Olson, daughters of Mr. Olson, the bank owner. Margaret was the older of the two. She was 20 years old, with dark-brown hair and brown eyes. She was a beauty. She was very outgoing and strong-willed. She never took any guff from anybody. Her sister Millie was two years younger. She looked an awful lot like her older sister. She was quiet and reserved. Getting her to talk was like pulling teeth. I could hear Margaret screaming at them as we approached. She was really giving them the what for. Millie was pressed up against her sisters back, trembling. Vern didnt give me a chance to say anything. Gallo! he hollered. Youll leave them girls alone if you know whats good for ya! It was almost chilling the way he said it. Tork turned and looked at him. He checked out the star pinned to his chest. Mind your own business, Clauson, he replied. I glanced at the two girls. Margaret was looking at Vern, and I swear she had a twinkle in her eye. So I kept quiet and stood my ground.
