_____ For some reason, the word no longer seemed to be in Julias vocabulary. And for good reason. The massive, obviously-fake objects that ballooned outward from her chest could hardly be called normal. They were ridiculous EE bimbo-bombs now perfectly round, incredibly heavy, and preposterously proportioned. Thrust through each of them was a gleaming steel bar piercing. But it wasn't just her frontal assets that had changed. The rest of her body had changed as well. Now her hips flared and her rear jiggled along embarrassingly as she staggered back and forth on the carpet. She'd been given the hourglass body of a eros-hungry animala curvaceous love-kitten, ever needy for erotic pleasures of the flesh. Moving forward as if in a trance, Julia managed to toddle up to her full-length dressing mirror to survey the full extent of the changes that had taken place. She gasped. Her lips parted to let out a scream but no sound came from her throat. The girl looking back at her from the mirror was a tattooed biker girl a pert-and-perky bimbo parody of a girl gone bad. It was as if a roadhouse off the interstate had given birth to an outrageous doll-like version of lust-on-wheels. Her boring old pixie hairdo was nowhere to be found her new burgundy tresses were a poofy throwback to mid-eighties centerfolds. They blossomed like fireworks from her head and fell around her shoulders, coming down to mid-waist. It was hair made for riding on the back of a tricked-out bike, blowing in the sultry wind of a thousand highway adventures. Whatwhat happened to me!?
