

Six Thinking Hats (Arabic Edition)

In Six Thinking Hats, Edward de Bono explains how to take control of your brain and as a result enhance the way you think. Through his experience, the author was able to categorize the way we think in six categories, each is represented by a hat with a distinctive color relating to a way of thinking. By categorizing our thoughts under these colored hats; we train ourselves on how to organize our thinking process and on how to avoid being caught under only one of them or being confused because of using all of them at the same time. White, red, black, yellow, green and blue are the six colors of hats that would help us control our thinking process; the white hat represents the abstract facts recognizing process, the red hat is about emotional thinking, the black hat is for pointing out the negativities in any issue, the yellow hat is for positive thinking, the green hat is for creative thinking and finally the blue hat represents the conductor of all the other hats. By reading the translated Arabic version of this book, you will renew the way you think and the way you interact with people around you.
