

Living Out of the Box (On The Edge)

The very first time Virginia spent a night with the vampire Anando, she couldn't have begun to imagine all the sensual and sexual games she would experience with him. She also couldn't have imagined that she would fall in love with him, or he with her. As she moves in with him and they find their places in each other's lives, the discoveries start again. A few of them happen through old games revisited: role-play, public sex or a familiar dildo in a different hand. Other discoveries come through new toys, some battery-operated, others custom-made to fit just right. And yet more discoveries come from playing with old and new partners. But in the end, the one lesson that remains the same might be the most important of all: love. (62,000 words)
